Zoe Nicholson has been an equality activist, speaker, writer and organizer for over 50 years. She discovered Miss Alice Paul while fasting for the Equal Rights Amendment in 1982. Zoe has been studying nonviolent direct action, social justice and equity while spending her knowledge working in the Peace, Labor, Women's and LGBTQ Movements.

Tea with Alice and Me is my heart song to Miss Paul. My mission is to introduce you to the brilliant, strategic, relentless champion of EQUALITY.
She is my North Star, my teacher, my inspiration and I am committed to carry her as far as the winds allow. I am very happy in reaching so high, collating over 40 years of passion and setting hearts on fire.

Alice Paul (1885 – 1972) Short, quiet, Quaker, New Jersey woman with violet eyes, who knew the next move on the march for Equality. Brave, clear, and an introvert who never took no for an answer. Women followed her in sheer relief that, Alice knew precisely what was needed.

Miss Paul is possibly the most unknown American Revolutionary. She was the very first to march to the White House, transforming Pennsylvania Avenue from a line of offices to a magnet for protest and demonstrations. Founder of The National Woman's Party, The World Woman's Party and author of the Equal Rights Amendment, Miss Paul worked for the advancement of women until her dying day, age 92.

Martha Wheelock has been and educator and filmmaker for over 40 years. Martha is on the board of the National Women's History Project, and Girls Learn International, a mentor at Girls Today, Women Tomorrow, a member of the Alliance of Women Directors, and a graduate of Earlham College (BA), New York University (MA, PhD) and AFI's Directing Workshop for Women.
She is the Executive Director of Wild West Women, Inc, a non-profit company she co-founded to produce films on women in order to provide positive role models for women and girls.
Her film subjects include; Kate Chopin, May Sarton, Madeleine L'Engle, Inez Milholland and Suffrage.
